Methodology Statement

Rutgers-Eagleton Poll February 3 – 10, 2015

The Rutgers-Eagleton Poll was conducted by telephone using live callers February 3-10, 2015 with a scientifically selected random sample of 813 New Jersey adults. The poll was available in Spanish for respondents who requested to do it in that language. This telephone poll included 290 landline and 523 cell phone adults, all acquired through random digit dialing. Distribution of household phone use in this sample is:

Cell Only:	13%
Dual Use, Reached on Cell:	23%
Dual Use, Reached on LL:	59%
Landline Only:	5%

Data were weighted to the demographics adults in New Jersey. Weights account for the probability of being selected within the sample frame and the probability of being sampled within a household, based on the number of individuals living in the household and the phone composition (cell, landline) of the household. The samples were weighted to several demographic variables reflecting the population parameters of the state of New Jersey: gender, race, age, and Hispanic ethnicity. The final weight, which combined all of the parameters mentioned, was trimmed at the 5th and 95th percentile so as to not accord too much weight to any one case or subset of cases. All results are reported with these weighted data.

All surveys are subject to sampling error, which is the expected probable difference between interviewing everyone in a population versus a scientific sampling drawn from that population. Sampling error should be adjusted to recognize the effect of weighting the data to better match the population. In this poll, the simple sampling error for the 813 adults is +/-3.4 percentage points at a 95 percent confidence interval. The adult sample weighting design effect is 1.41, making the adjusted margin of error +/- 4.1 percentage points for the adult sample.

Thus if 50 percent of New Jersey adults in this sample favor a particular position, we would be 95 percent sure that the true figure is between 45.9 and 54.1 percent (50 +/-4.1) if all New Jersey adults had been interviewed, rather than just a sample.

Sampling error increases as the sample size decreases, so statements based on various population subgroups are subject to more error than are statements based on the total sample. Sampling error does not take into account other sources of variation inherent in public opinion studies, such as non-response, question wording or context effects.

This Rutgers-Eagleton Poll was fielded in house by the Eagleton Center for Public Interest Polling. The questionnaire was developed and all data analyses were completed in house. The Rutgers-Eagleton Poll is paid for and sponsored by the Eagleton Institute of Politics, Rutgers University, a non-partisan academic center for the study of politics and the political process.
